

BCASCD and the ADTA present a professional development opportunity:

Education on the Technological Highway: Teaching for a digital culture

This new environment offers educators greater access to learners, improved potential for innovative and immersive learning experiences and enhanced efficiency. New media, social networking, and online teaching tools offer educators a means of shaping their teaching with digital culture.

Date: Thursday, February 17th, 2011

Location: Cascade Community Church

35190 Delair Road, Abbotsford, BC, V3G 3B5

Cost: $60/person $200/group of 4

Time: 5:00 registration 5:30-6:30 dinner 6:30-8:00 speaker

Co-Sponsored by the BCASCD and the Abbotsford District Teachers' Association

Please visit our website for more updates on registration:

www.bcascd.org

adta

Ross A. Laird is an interdisciplinary scholar, consultant, teacher, and creative artist. He is a best-selling author, psychotherapist, university professor, addictions and trauma specialist, consultant in the psychology of leadership, poet, and craftsman in wood and stone. Whether he's giving a keynote address at a psychology conference, working with heroin addicts in Vancouver's Downtown Eastside, or discussing his ideas about creativity on radio and television, Laird offers a unique blend of the arts and sciences. He is a storyteller, a philosopher, and an engaging speaker.

Visit his website at www.rosslaird.info

Follow us on Twitter @bcascd, facebook or visit our website at www.bcascd.org

adta Abbotsford District Teachers' Association <http://bctf.ca/local34/>